Lieutenant-Governor Willard's Address Today

Lieutenant-Governor Joseph E. Willard today addressed the voters of Rockbridge in the interest of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor.

His address was a plain, thoughtful, straight forward statement of his claims for this high honor, and his audience repeatedly applauded his sentiments. The Courthouse was fairly well filled, including many ladies.

The meeting was called to order at noon by Mr. Frank Moore, chairman of the County Democratic Executive Committee. He presented Mr. Greenlee D. Letcher, who introduced Colonel Willard.

Mr. Letcher said it gave him great pleasure to present to a Rockbridge audience his former classmate at the Virginia Military Institute, whom he commended as a young man of ability and energy, whose claims for gubernatorial honors were in accordance with the law of promotion. He had served his party well in the Legislature, as Lieutenant-Governor and president of the State Senate and, therefore, was well equipped for the promotion to the Governorship.

Colonel Willard prefaced his address by referring to the pleasure it afforded him by the hearty words of praise bestowed by his friend and classmate, Mr. Letcher.

Entering into the discussion of the questions of the hour, Colonel Willard said that he laid no claims to the nomination on account of any party service rendered by him, but he based his claims upon his fitness for the position. He invited the closest scrutiny of his public record, wherein he had always had foremost in his mind and action the good of Virginia.

Eulogizing the spirit of frankness and fair play, Mr. Willard clearly restated his position about the Mann bill. His letter gave his views fully, but he did not desire to dodge or evade the issue. He did not regard it an issue of the campaign, because he had found no sentiment anywhere for its repeal, but if an issue, it was a legislative not a gubernatorial issue. However, he would state his views clearly. He did not favor its repeal. He approved the bill if it was construed to regulate and control the sale of intoxicants, but not if it was construed to mean prohibition.

As to working convicts upon the roads, Mr. Willard said that he was heartily in favor of the proposition. Convicts working in the penitentiary are brought into contact with honest labor for the benefit of individuals, while if they are worked on the roads, they are not so closely in competition with honest labor and are working for the Commonwealth, against which they have sinned.

Passing to the question of education, he said that he was unalterably in favor of adopting the single book list immediately upon expiration of the present multiple contracts. That since the dark days of reconstruction until two years ago the State treasury was without a surplus, but that the next Legislature would face a surplus of seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars and that he favored its being used for educational purposes, beginning with the country schools which was the base of the country's progress; that he favored better school houses, better paid teachers and such improvements that would place the poor people of the rural districts on equal footing with the cities in educational facilities.

Speaking of the great commercial advantages of the State, Colonel Willard said that there was no better way to improve these advantages than by having good roads and tempting desirable immigration. With the roads in the present conditions, people with capital will not settle in the country.

"If the people of Virginia want good roads," he continued, "they must pay for them. It will be a long time before the United States government ever takes a step toward assisting the State in paying for its roads."

Republican Primaries Saturday

Republican primaries were held in the various districts of Rockbridge Saturday to elect delegates to the County Convention, which was held at the courthouse Monday.

In Lexington and several other of the districts there was a considerable trial of strength between the "machine," so called, and those who desire to become the "machine." At the courthouse, Lexington, the meeting was a large one, and the "machine" won by a handsome majority. In fact the opposition revealed considerable weakness in the contest for the chairmanship. Mr. Wade Masters was elected.

In Natural Bridge district, the primary was held at Lindsey's Schoolhouse. J. J. Moore was elected chairman and William Jennings, secretary.

Buffalo primary at Colliertown: J. A. Wilkinson, chairman; Thos. H. Sale, secretary.

Kerr's Creek, at Big Spring Mill: J. A. Conner chairman; H. M. Mohler, secretary.

Walker's Creek, at Goshe, Christopher Roadcap, chairman; J. W. Gwinn, secretary.

South River at Fairfield: D. W. Taylor, chairman; J. T. Patton, secretary.

Buena Vista, at the Courthouse: J. M. Updike, chairman; S. W. Tardy, secretary.

Croup instantly relieved. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Perfectly safe. Never fails. At any drug store.

Rockbridge Republicans Plan for Active Campaign

The Republicans of Rockbridge gathered in convention in Lexington on Monday and elected delegates to the State Republican Convention to be held in Roanoke August 8th, and also passed strong resolutions endorsing the National Republican party, and congratulating Virginia Republicans for the new lease of life and activity.

The work of C. B. Slem, chairman of the State Republican committee, was commended, and the nomination of Judge L. L. Lewis of Richmond, was favored for Governor.

The meeting was harmonious, with just enough life injected at times to make it interesting. The liveliest tilt occurred when the committee on resolutions reported that the delegates elected to the Roanoke convention be instructed to vote for John Acker of Rockingham for Lieutenant-Governor.

After discussion, in which James A. Frazier, J. M. Quisenberry and H. B. Abrahams advocated leaving the delegates free to vote as they deemed best, and McClung Patton and J. J. Moore favored giving them instructions, a compromise was effected by recommending the delegates to vote for Mr. Acker instead of instructing them. The report later instructed the delegates present to cast the entire vote of the county on all questions as the majority of them may determine. It is believed the majority of the delegates favor Mr. Acker.

The convention was called to order by Postmaster McClung Patton, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee of Rockbridge. He stated the object of the meeting to be the election of delegates to the Roanoke Convention, who will nominate a State ticket, the election of delegates to a float convention to be held for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the House of Delegates from Rockbridge, Bath, Highland and the city of Buena Vista, and also to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates from Rockbridge. The convention was temporarily organized by the election of Wade Masters of Lexington, as chairman, and S. W. Tardy of Buena Vista, as secretary. Mr. Masters announced the following committees:

Credentials—J. M. Quisenberry, J. E. Hart, T. E. Copper, R. M. Montgomery, J. F. Kirkpatrick, R. H. Brown.

Organization—J. J. Moore, J. A. Conner, G. S. Day, J. A. Gibson, J. A. Wilkinson, H. B. Abrahams.

Recommendations—W. H. Shaw, M. B. McNamara, J. W. Brown, J. T. Patton, J. E. Potter, M. W. Lady.

Resolutions—Thomas Shewey, Ashby Hart, William Jennings, J. A. Frazier, Bruce Boserman, Jacob Beard.

The committee on organization recommended that the temporary organization be made permanent, which was done.

Following are the delegates elected to the Roanoke convention, each with half a vote: J. M. Quisenberry, Wade Masters, J. A. Frazier, J. W. Brown, W. H. Shaw, J. A. Gibson, R. M. Montgomery, Thomas Shewey, H. S. McCluer, J. L. Hamilton, J. F. Kirkpatrick, William Jennings, McClung Patton, R. H. Brown, J. J. Moore, G. S. Day, J. F. Guinn, Frank Tankersley, H. B. Abrahams.

The following delegates were elected to the float convention to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates: J. M. Quisenberry, William Jennings, Thomas Shewey, W. H. Shaw, J. F. Kirkpatrick, J. E. Hart.

The convention adjourned to meet at the Courthouse Monday, September 4th, to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates from Rockbridge.

A Nonagenarian Dead

Robert M. Sloan, born and reared in Lexington, died in Greensboro, N. C., July 28, 1905, in the 94th year of his age. Fifty years ago the form of this patriarch was frequently seen on the streets of Lexington, where he had many relatives. Mrs. Jacob Fuller and Mrs. James R. Jordan were his sisters; and two brothers also lived in Lexington. Col. John Sloan and Alexander T. Sloan. His mother was Miss Mary Shields of Rockbridge.

In the years of his active life as a citizen of Greensboro, he had been a successful and enterprising merchant, for twenty years his mayor, and was the agent of the Southern Express company since its establishment there till the day of his death. He is survived by five daughters; one son, Colonel John A. Sloan, dying in Baltimore several years ago. His funeral took place from the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Egbert Smith officiating. The remains were interred in Greensboro, the city officials being present in a body.

Judge William McLaughlin

The Virginia Law Register has published a sketch of the late Judge William McLaughlin, by Mr. Charles Curry of the Staunton bar. Mr. Curry has also had printed a number of booklets containing the sketch alone, which he is distributing among his friends. It is illustrated with a lifelike portrait of Judge McLaughlin. The sketch is exhaustive and cannot fail to please the many friends of this remarkable man, remarkable in the force of his character, and in the power of his intellect.

Eczema, scald head, hives, Itchiness of the skin of any sort, instantly relieved, permanently cured. Doan's Ointment. At any drug store.

Improvement of Chemistry Hall at W. & L. U.

At Washington and Lee University important improvements to the halls of the school of chemistry are now in progress. The basis of the improvement is the appropriation of $5,000 made by the Board of Trustees for this work.

The new home for the department of chemistry is the entire southern part of the main University building, three stories, the quarters twelve years ago occupied by the departments of engineering, physics, law and chemistry. There are fourteen rooms, with a floor space of nearly 10,000 square feet. The rooms are all conveniently arranged and are equipped with gas, water and sewer pipes, and heated by hot water.

The third floor contains the lecture room, with a seating capacity of 100 students, the lecture preparation room and the chemical museum. On the second floor are located the chemical library, the professor's office, private laboratory and laboratory for special work. The first floor contains the analytical laboratory in qualitative and quantitative analysis, accommodating 36 students. North of this room is the assay laboratory, in the rear of which is the balance room, thoroughly protected from fumes and changes of temperature. In the old physics laboratory in the rear is the beginners' laboratory in general chemistry, to accommodate 40 students working together. The old chemistry lecture room in the southern end of the building is to be used as the laboratory for advanced students in organic and inorganic chemistry. In addition to these, there are commodious and convenient stock rooms for apparatus and chemicals.

The work is under the direct supervision of Dr. Jas. Lewis Howe, professor of chemistry. The carpenter work is being done by Mr. J. H. Ettinger, the brick work by Mr. J. A. Champ, plumbing by Dick Jones and plastering by James Lewis.

The department will be ready for use by the opening of the University in September.

A Child Lost and Found

The neighborhood of North River near Lexington was thrown into great excitement last Thursday afternoon by the sudden disappearance of a child, little Clelia, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bare.

The child accompanied its mother to the barn to milk the cows. Imitative, as most children are, she carried a little bucket to help her mother. While attending to her work Mrs. Bare for a time lost sight of her child, and when her duties were done the little was nowhere to be seen.

After an unsuccessful search around the barn and house, the alarm was given. Friends and neighbors responded promptly and diligent search for hours was made for the missing infant. With torches and lanterns the sympathizing searchers examined every corn row, every fence corner and out of the way place where by any chance the little one might be concealed. At nearly midnight she was found in a cornfield some distance from the house.

The supposition is that the little girl, while unnoticed by her mother, had wandered off in the direction of her grandfather's home, Mr. Adam Bare, who lived nearby, and with the intention of going there.

An incident in the search was the intelligence displayed by a dog. This faithful friend of the little girl several times approached members of the searching party, and then would hasten away. No attention was paid to the actions of the dog. Afterwards, on reflection, it was thought the dog was trying to lead the way to the missing child.

Married in Iowa

The Herald of Grinnell, Iowa, under date of Friday, July 28th, says:

Married at the home of J. W. Mohler, 1133 Prairie St., Wednesday evening, July 26, Mr. J. Edward Treve of Eldon, Iowa, to Miss Alice M. Kramer of Beacon, Iowa. Elder J. S. Roth officiating.

Mr. Treve is an employee of the C. R. I. & P. R. R. as telegraph line man, with headquarters at Eldon, and is a cousin of Mrs. Mohler's. The bride is a successful teacher in the Beacon high school, and has many friends and acquaintances in Grinnell. This was one of those quiet, sensible home weddings that we all enjoy, and these young people leave today for their new home at Eldon, with best wishes for a happy married life.

X-RAYS

Some Reasons Why Lexington People Should Follow this Valuable Advice

'Because the proof is in Lexington. You can easily investigate it. Not necessary to experiment. With some untold remedy. Profit by the experience of a citizen.

William C. Charlton, sexton of the Lexington Cemetery residing on Main St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are a grand medicine and I have no hesitancy in saying that if anyone who has kidney complaint will give them a good fair trial they will be benefited. For a good many years I had attacks of sharp pains across my loins. At times it was impossible for me to stoop or lift anything, and if I sat for any length of time it was difficult to get up. Besides this I had rheumatism and lumbago and was bothered with an annoying kidney weakness. The secretions from the kidneys were reduced, were highly colored and deposited a brick-dust sediment. I had no energy and was generally run down. I tried many remedies and wore plasters but until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at B. H. Gorrell's drug store, I obtained nothing like satisfactory results. In a few days after commencing to use Doan's Kidney Pills I noticed decided relief. When the secretions from the kidneys assumed a natural appearance and action the pains and aches left me and I felt as well as I ever did. I cannot say too much in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills for in my case they certainly worked like a charm."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
